Update: January 2022 – Aircraft Rescue and Firefighting Training Program

The COVID-19 pandemic has changed the world and affected the way that we interact with one another. Pittsburgh International Airport (PIT) is committed to making sure that our experiences with one another are safe and mutually beneficial.

Considering COVID-19, we wanted to provide an update on the status of the Aircraft Rescue and Firefighting (ARFF) training program at PIT. At this time, all FAA Part 139 Live Fire Training classes, as well as all other courses offered at PIT, are expected to take place as scheduled.

To ensure the safety of our participants and staff members, we will continue to follow our updated operational and training policies to include healthy practices as recommended by the CDC. These include routine, deep cleaning of our entire facility, equipment and gear.

Individuals who are currently registered to attend a training session who would like to reschedule or cancel for any reason can always do so by emailing firetraining@flypittsburgh.com. Reimbursements will be issued if you choose to cancel your training session.

These are challenging times for our industry, and we want you to know that we value your partnership and wish you and your airport team well during this time. Please don't hesitate to reach out in the days and weeks ahead —if there is anything our team at PIT can do to help, please let us know.

Sincerely,

Tim Llewellyn
Deputy Fire Chief
